Civic Engagement Qualities:

1. Students interact on a regular basis with a community group, organization, or neighborhood stakeholders, and their interactions inform their work. [e.g. students lead community workshops as a method of data collection].
2. Students study significant challenges to a community and present their work to a community group [e.g. students make a public presentation about a municipal policy impact].
3. Students serve a community group with professional work that results in a product or solution [e.g. design/build project, graphic design branding, business plan]
4. Students collaborate with students outside their discipline on a project of public benefit [e.g. a business / architecture green development collaboration].

Projects will be judged on:

Impact + Innovation + Student and community engagement

Format: Submit a maximum of 2 pages that describes the course or activity, benefit to WU, benefit to applicant, and benefit to students
