FRANÇOIS DALLEGRET:
SATURDAY, MAY 21 AT 3PM

The work of François Dallegret defies simple categorization. Dallegret is best known for his collaboration with architectural critic Reyner Banham, author of "Los Angeles, The Architecture of four Ecologies" in their article "A Home is Not a House" that was published in 1965 in the magazine Art in America including the iconic drawing of the Environmental Bubble.

It exemplified the utopian visions that architects, artists and designers were developing in the sixties, ranging from a belief in new technologies to a new, radical use of the land. This exhibition will allow a new generation to physically experience these drawings more than fifty years after their publication, as well as a visual selection of his built and unbuilt projects during these five decades.
